

Extra, Extra! Coyote Makes Headlines on National Newspaper Carrier Day

SEATTLE—Today, September 4, is National Newspaper Carrier Day and to celebrate we're sharing this wildly adorable coyote taking a page from professional newspaper carriers.

The video submitted to Woodland Park Zoo's Carnivore Spotter was recorded in a Seattle neighborhood. It shows the coyote exploring its neighbor's front porch before deciding it needed a little reading material of its own, snagging the newspaper right off the porch.

Carnivore Spotter is part of the Seattle Urban Carnivore Project which explores how mammalian carnivores, such as coyotes, foxes, raccoons, bobcats, and even cougars and bears live and interact with people across urban and suburban areas in the Seattle region.

Using Carnivore Spotter, Seattle area residents can report sightings of our eight focal carnivore species. Since Carnivore Spotter's launch in August 2019, Washington state residents have logged more than 12,000 observations of local carnivores!
